1. Rational behind the memorandum development

The NETCHEM project has set a clear goal of developing sustainable collaboration among partner institutions in the project via use of resources. Namely the NETCHEM platform and SQL data base.

This memorandum or collection of agreements will serve the participants of the project as a guide and motivation for future collaborations as well as exploitation of the project after its completion.

The common name for all parties of the Agreement is "Contracting Parties" or „Partner institutions“.

Since there is a common interest in the overcoming social barriers in education of instrumental analysis in environmental and food safety control, exchange of scientific and practical knowledge and experience, strengthening the capacity of training and education possibilities, the Contracting Parties have established the agreement, as follows:

Article 1.

The institutions from Serbia, Albania, United Kingdom, Czech Republic and France as Partner institutions, within the project "NETCHEM: ICT Networking for Overcoming Technical and Social Barriers in Instrumental Analytical Chemistry education" are prepared for mutual educational, scientific and technical cooperation.

Article 2.

The Contracting parties have an interest in their long-term mutual voluntary cooperation through:

- Establishing the sustainability of the project "NETCHEM: ICT Networking for Overcoming Technical and Social Barriers in Instrumental Analytical Chemistry education" after its completion, by bilateral and multilateral cooperation;
- Exchange of researchers, teachers, associates and students, who were participants of the NETCHEM project;
- Exchange of scientific experiences and achievements which were developed within the NETCHEM project;
- Continuously explore possibilities of joint usage of laboratory equipment for educational and collaborative research purposes to expand long-term sustainability;
- Joint usage of web accessed remote instrumental analytical laboratories (WARIAL) tools in the environmental and food safety control (EFSC) domain which were developed within the NETCHEM project;
- Joint usage of SQL based system for the monitoring of EFSC quality indicators, case studies and professional's discussion forums which was developed within the NETCHEM project;

All of the above activities are assumed to be on voluntary basis in line with interests of each of the contracting parties.

Article 3.

The agreement generally defines elements of educational, scientific and technical cooperation between the Contracting parties. In the case that some of the forms of cooperation are not covered by this agreement, a new agreement of the subject of cooperation will be signed.

Article 4.

Within the possibilities provided in Article 2 of this agreement, Partner institutions, signatories to the agreement, will separately define mutual rights and obligations in each specific long-term mutual cooperation using contract annexes.

Amendments to this agreement may be made by special annexes, in the manner and procedure as the agreement has been concluded.

Article 5.

The Contracting parties shall implement the established cooperation under this agreement in the following manner: joint educational, scientific and research activity will be accomplished through bilateral and multilateral cooperation that may include third parties. Obligations and rights of all parties will be defined by new contracts that will be related to each cooperation.

Article 6.

This contract does not imply any financial involvement of any Contracting party. Details of new cooperation will be defined by separate bilateral or multilateral agreements. The financial arrangements necessary for their implementation must be directly negotiated for each specific activity and will depend on the availability of funds.

Contracting parties agree that authors and users keep the rights on material in SQL data base, and that they allow the right of access and use to other signatories of this contract in accordance with pre-agreed time frames.

Article 7.

The parties agree to resolve all mutual misunderstandings with mutual respect and agreement.

Article 8.

This agreement shall come into force when signed by representatives of the Contracting parties, in accordance with the obligatory rules.

Article 9.

This agreement is concluded for an indefinite period.

Article 10.

Any Contracting party may request termination of this agreement if circumstances arise which lead the Contracting party to be in an unequal position or which substantially violates the interests of the Contracting party without their fault. The obligation of the Contracting party to file a written request for termination must occur at least six months prior to official termination and needs to be sent to each of the signatories of the agreement.

Article 11.

All notices and correspondence of the Contracting parties will be sent to either their official postal or e-mail addresses.

Article 12.

We, the undersigned, declare to have read and accepted the terms and conditions of this Agreement as described here before.
